U. S. STEAMER WHIPS A SUB

U-BOAT GETS WORST OF ENCOUNTER AND APPARENTLY SUNK BY STEAMER.

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, May 7.—A fight between the American steamer Tidewater and a German submarine, on March 17th, in which the submarine was defeated and apparently sunk, was reported today to the navy department by the command of the vessel's gun crew.

TWELVE MEN LEAVE FOR FT. SAM HOUSTON

Twelve young men of Pontotoc county left Ada Monday evening to be inducted into army service at Fort Sam Houston. Two more who were included in this quota did not return in time but will be sent as soon as they arrive. Eight more will be sent to Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas, today. Following is a list of those who left Monday:

Charles R. Gee, Tobe D. Wilcoxson, Clarence Henry, Elza Myrick, Gardner W. Braley, Willie A. Johns, Leonard Southernland, Jas. H. Vernon, John W. Grew, Lillard L. Hill, Deb Whitaker, Maxx Brents.

HEAVY GAS ATTACK AGAINST AMERICANS IN PICARDY

With the American Forces on the French Front, May 7.—The Germans launched a heavy gas attack against the American troops on the Picardy front during the night. Early in the evening they set over 15,000 shells, composed chiefly of mustard gas, within a brief period. These shells were followed by an intense artillery fire. At midnight several hundred gas shells were dropped into the American lines.

Enemy airplanes appeared over the American lines about the same time. Anti-aircraft guns brought down one German machine and damaged another. The extreme activity of the artillery fire and night flares and the reported movements behind the enemy lines in this sector make for a new attack, but General Pershing's men are ready for any emergency. They are co-opting the enemy's preparations blow for blow, keeping up a harassing artillery, rifle and machine gun fire and are actively patrolling.

WAR DEBT OF NATIONS GOES FAR INTO BILLIONS

The London Economist for February places the total gross debt of Great Britain at 5,678,600,000 pounds ($27,630,000,000). The French Minister of Finance in presenting the budget for 1918 estimated the public debt of France on Dec. 31, 1917, at 115,166,058,000 francs ($22,227,000,000). The public debt of Italy at the end of 1917 is estimated at about 35,000,000,000 lire ($6,676,000,000).

The debts of the central powers are estimated as follows: Germany, $25,408,000,000; Austria, $13,314,000,000; and Hungary, $5,947,000,000.

Our own public debt is now around $3,000,000,000 but more than half of this amount has been loaned to our allies and will be repaid to us. It is estimated that of the total net expenditures of the United States for the fiscal year of 1918, exclusive of our advances to our allies, more than one-half will be defrayed by taxation.

SENATE READY TO INVESTIGATE

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, May 7.—Chairman Chamberlain of the Senate Military committee announced today that, with the Senate's support his committee would investigate the aircraft situation with a view of determining when and where money appropriated for that purpose had been spent.

ANTI-GERMAN EDITOR DRIVEN FROM MEXICO

New York, May 7.—Felix F. Palavicini, former owner and editor of El Universal, a Mexico City newspaper, arrived today with his wife and family. Senor Palavicini said his departure from the Mexican capital was due to fears for his life and the safety of his family at the hands of German propagandists.

GERMANS MUST ATTACK SOON

SHOW NO DISPOSITION TO RESUME DRIVE, BUT MOVE EXPECTED SHORTLY.

(By the Associated Press)
Germany's hordes are still held in check. Neither in Flanders, in Picardy nor along the important Arras sector, has the enemy renewed the attack in force and he hasn't reacted against the gain north of the Somme, made by the Australians, in which over 200 prisoners were captured. On both battle fronts artillery fire has been most intense and the German attack cannot much longer be delayed if the enemy hopes to take advantage of the damage to the Kemmel positions last week. The expected Austro-Hungarian blow against the Italian front hasn't developed. Today is the third anniversary of the Lusitania sinking with a loss of 1,275 lives.

British Report Successful Raid.
London, May 7.—The British made a successful raid last night near Neuville Vitasse, southwest of Arras, the war office announces. Three machine guns were captured. A raid attempted by the enemy near Boyelles was repulsed. Nothing further to report, the statement adds.

French Take Prisoners.
Paris, May 7.—Active artillery fighting occurred last night on both sides of the Aisne river on the front southeast of Amiens, the war office announces. A German raid against a small French post was repulsed near Hangard. Local operations in the same region brought us some prisoners.

OVERMAN BILL BEFORE HOUSE

FAVORABLE COMMITTEE REPORT ON MEASURE GIVING PRESIDENT NEW POWERS.

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, May 7.—The Overman bill, granting broad powers to the President to reorganize and co-ordinate government departments, was ordered favorably reported to the house today by the judiciary committee by a vote of fifteen to one. An amendment by Representative Walsh, Republican, Massachusetts, to exempt the interstate commerce commission and federal reserve board was defeated twelve to six. Chairman Webb announced that an early vote will be sought.

ARMY CALLS FOR MORE SKILLED MEN

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, May 7.—A requisition on all states except Arizona, Delaware and Vermont, for a total of 4,060 specially qualified draft registrants to go to camp May 20 was put out today by Provost Marshal General Crowder.

NEW OIL WELL WILL BE SPUNDED WEDNESDAY

The Gillette-Mascho interests will spud in a new well in Sec. 3 Wednesday, near the other producing wells of that vicinity.

Two squads of the home guard turned out to drill Monday evening. Lieut. Arnett announced that hereafter the drilling would begin promptly on the dot of 8 o'clock, no matter how few were present, and end promptly at 9.

WEATHER REPORT.

Somewhat cooler is all the weather man has to say of Wednesday, although most people would prefer a continuance of this warm growing weather.

GERMAN DENIES SEEKING PEACE

SAYS REPORT OF HOLLANDER BEARING OFFERS TO BRITISH PURE INVENTION.

(By the Associated Press)
Amsterdam, May 7.—The report that a Dutchman had gone to London to make peace proposals on instructions from Foreign Secretary Von Kuehlmann, says an official statement from Berlin, is a complete invention. Another dispatch says a complete peace agreement with Rumania will be signed either Monday or Tuesday.

RED CROSS WORKERS WILL CONFER SATURDAY

The various district chairmen of the county and ward captains of Ada in the coming Red Cross drive will be served with a dinner Saturday at the Methodist church in Ada, at which time the plans of the campaign beginning the 13th will be fully outlined. Address on the work will be delivered by E. J. Giddings of Oklahoma City.

AMERICAN AVIATORS DISCIPLINE IN ITALY

American Aviation Camp, Southern Italy, May 7 (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Control of young men on foreign soil is considered one of the main difficulties of their training here. The instruction in the art of practical flying is far easier than teaching them how to avoid the inevitable temptations presented to visitors in a new and interesting country. As the very life of the aviators depends on their mental and physical condition, without counting machines worth $5,000 or more each, the commander is doing all in his power to teach his aviators to lead sober lives in every respect.

The rough and ready discipline applied to infantry or artillery or cavalry has not been found adapted to aviators on whose morals so much depends. Downright drunkenness and the contraction of avoidable diseases are the only two offenses which meet with severe punishment, and the latter always means court-martial.

For the rest, persuasion is used. In the nightly lectures on flying, the aviators frequently are reminded of this stern fact: "You have been sent over here after great expense by the government of the United States. A whole lot of money is being spent on you, probably more than some of you are worth. But you were picked out as first class men, and it is up to you to prove it."

A small handbook entitled "Practical Flying Hints" has just been published for the benefit of the camp by one of the Italian instructors, and the foreword by the American commander deals with the care of the body.

"The first requisite for an aviator is a strong and healthy body," it reads. In addition to that he must have the proper nervous and mental makeup, always on the alert and with absolute control over his body. He must not be of an excitable nature nor know fear, for aviation is not the branch of the service for a man with a "yellow streak."

GERMAN SUBMARINE GETS AMERICAN SHIP

(By the Associated Press)
New York, May 7.—The American steamship Tyler, formerly an Old Dominion freighter, has been torpedoed and sunk off the French coast with the loss of eleven lives, according to information received in marine circles here.

AGREEMENT REACHED ON AMENDMENT TO DRAFT ACT

Washington, May 7.—An agreement on the bill extending the selective draft law to youths 21 years of age since June 5, 1917, was reached today by Senate and House conferees. The amendment of Representative Hull of Iowa providing that the additional registrants shall be placed at the bottom of present eligible lists was retained.

The conferees also adopted an amendment which General Crowder also opposed, requiring registration of men already in the military service who have attained their majority since last June 5. General Crowder thinks this work would be unnecessary costly and would be resented by some of the men in the service.

TWO NEW MEMBERS OF COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

R. W. Simpson and J. M. Winter-Smith are the latest additions to the council of defense of Pontotoc county, the governor having recently appointed them, presumably in recognition of their excellent service in various branches of war work.

MAYOR CONGER BEGINS CLEANUP OF ALLEYS

Mayor Conger has begun his administration by ordering a cleanup of the alleys, the sanitation department being under his jurisdiction. The alleys of the business section are in a deplorable condition and work has begun there. The mayor says if any business men have anything in the alleys they want to keep, it would be well to get it out of the way of the force put to work as he expects to make a thorough job of it.

OKLAHOMA LEADS IN GARDEN WORK

Oklahoma City, May 7.—Dr. Frederick A. Merrill of Washington, in charge of the United States school garden army in the south central states arrived here yesterday to spend the week inspecting garden work in the state. He will attend a garden rally at McAlester, Tuesday, one at Shawnee, Tuesday, and another at Guthrie Thursday.

"Oklahoma is in the lead in garden work in my district," Dr. Merrill said. "I can get responses from Oklahoma quicker than any other state, because of the excellent organization. Oklahoma should be proud of what it has accomplished in garden work."

J. W. Bridges, state garden director, will accompany Doctor Merrill on his inspection trip.

The people of Ada are to be congratulated on the opportunity given through the high school of hearing the famous musician, Paulo Gruppe, on the 16th. Prof. Fentem and his associates have given the citizens of Ada some splendid entertainments this year with stars of the first magnitude in various lines, and it is gratifying to know that all have been well patronized and highly appreciated.

Voters in Ada, and perhaps all other parts of Pontotoc county, will have to get a hustle on themselves, if they register in time to vote. Friday, the 10th, is the last day and voters are not doing much so far. As explained by Mr. Cowling, county registrar, it is not absolutely necessary for those who still have their old certificates to register at this time, but those who have lost their certificates, as well as those who have become voters since last registration, moved their residence or changed their politics, MUST register if they expect to vote. The time is very close, but there is still time for all who will hurry. To be on the safe side, it is best for those who still have their old certificates to register again.

The Socialists of Illinois furnish a striking example of people who learn nothing from experience. Their state convention adopted a resolution demanding the recall of the American armies from France and that President Wilson call a conference of the warring powers to arrange peace.

terms. That is exactly what the Bolsheviks of Russia did and the unhappy plight that country finds itself in with the German heel on its neck and the German marauders stripping the nation of everything they can make use of is sufficient answer to the question of what would happen to the United States should Wilson follow in the footsteps of Lenin and Trotsky. However, this does not change the disloyal attitude of the Socialists of Illinois who care nothing about what fate would certainly overtake this country if she tried to treat with the kaiser. A rattlesnake or tiger is not easy to make terms with or listen to reason, and the kaiser is of that kind.

Rumors came from Germany to the effect that the Pope was preparing another peace note, but the Pope says there is no hope of peace now and that he will wait for a more opportune time. He no doubt realizes that the allies are in grim earnest and, like the Romans of old, will talk peace only with a vanquished foe.

YELLOW DOGS.
Are you a yellow dog? No? How do you know? If you have read the story in The Saturday Evening Post by Henry Irving Dodge, probably you are convinced that you have been a yellow dog and did not realize it. The story is well worth reading, by both young and old. An organization of the young boys of this locality stamp out yellow dogism might not be a bad thing.

America's people are too prone to make rash statements and not be able to back them up. The rumors about the Red Cross frauds were nothing more or less than some attempt to slow up the war work of America. These rumors were carried about by yellow dogs, or those too yellow to come out in the open and say they knew it to be true or to be false. If something is going wrong, it ought to be corrected. Constructive criticism is welcomed by all phases of the government in trying to banish from the earth Hunism and Kaiserism. Backbiting, yellow dogism and calumny howlers are things not wanted now and never.

STRUGGLING RUSSIA.
The Russian people are becoming tired of the Bolshevik rule, as all sane people know they must become. The Bolsheviks are out-caring the czar. They are killing where the former rulers simply imprisoned. The revolution is turned into a farce, and blood still flows.

More than a year ago when the Russian revolution occurred, the people shouted with joy. They felt that the long reign of terror and slavery was at an end. They felt that for the first time in history the shackles had been loosened and they would be permitted to toil and get the fruits of their toil. The Jews felt that the pale restrictions had been removed, and the Russian Jew would be able to make an honest living and do it without bribery and insults.

Tired of slavery, tired of war, the people did not care for carrying on the fight against the German menace. The greatest and closest menace had been removed. Why fight to remove abstract things they could not conceive of? Thus when the Bolsheviks managed to get into control and began to make overtures of peace to Germany, the Russian people believed the day of happiness was at hand. The songs that were sung, the rejoicing of those oppressed people must have resounded through every vale and over every hillside in the great expanse of country.

The Bolshevik rule set in. For a time citizens breathed deeply as a result of the prospect of the millennium. Then followed the reign of terror. Honest citizens were killed because they said what they thought. Men who had formerly upheld the Kerensky government were thrown into jail. The old slavery had returned, increased with a goodly percentage.

Now the oppressed people realize they have been tricked by the German rulers. That Lenin and Trotsky were in the employment of the German officers few well informed people doubt. In their sorrow and remorse, they begin to turn to the Allies for help and comfort. The Allies will give them the aid and comfort asked for, but the first demand will be the expulsion of those two rank traitors, Lenin and Trotsky. As long as these snakes inhabit the globe, the globe will be too small for Russians and Allies to mix on peacefully.

We see a brighter day for Russia, but the brighter day lies beyond a dark night. During the intervening night, the time for ridding the world of the two arch traitors, blood will flow.

DISPOSITION OF GERMANY.
When we went to war President Wilson ably made the distinction between the German people and the German government, declaring that we were fighting for the first and fighting against the second. That distinction still holds. When we fight to blot out Kaiserism, we fight at the same time to free the German people from the yoke of bondage. Frankly, the freeing of the German people is not our object; our object is the freeing of ourselves. Equally frankly, we realize that the German people do not want to be freed. Their bondage seems to be a sweet bondage. They prefer, so it seems, to worship at the feet of the Kaiser to standing free and unshackled and worshipping only the God of the Universe. We shall free the German because their freedom must come as a result of our own.

But what is Kaiserism? It is more than the Kaiser himself. It is more than the Kaiser and his family. It is more than the military party. It is the whole fabric composed of the Kaiser, the war party, the superstition of the divine right of kings, the inheritance of kingdoms, the idea that might makes right, that God is with the largest army, that Germans are predestined to rule the world, and that before the sword of German truth everything must give way. To kill Kaiserism, therefore, means that we must root up many of the ideas, the basic principles of German education, and many of the meals of the German's religion. It means they must be converted, converted as certainly as Saul, new ideals must supplant the false ideals now extant.

While freeing the German people, therefore, we must kill a big bunch of German men, and incidentally German women and children. When we win, as we will, the ideals will not be changed. When the army of Hindenburg is sent better skelton across the Rhine, the threads of the Kaiserism fabric will begin to give way a bit, but it will by no means be torn asunder. Before the fabric will be destroyed, the German people must be separated, new combinations must be made, new governments set up, new officers put in charge.

What good would it do to whip Hindenburg if we intend to let an entire German army spring into existence to threaten the safety of the world in after years? Why send out boys, the best we've got, to Europe to fight, if at the same time we are determined to give the devilish monster a sound thrashing and let his poisonous nostrils still exhale the poisonous breath? When America goes forth to do a job, she usually does it in same fashion, and that some fashion is enough to last awhile.

Now that Britain and France and Italy have cut off some of the heads of the many headed Hydra, why not let America cut off the rest of them? Germany as a state must be destroyed. France can well afford to extend her boundaries to the Rhine. Poland, rebuilt, reconstructed could easily control the territory east of the Rhine. Denmark would like to have back her colonies and we should like to see them back. Italy should be given what territory she wants on the Adriatic. The Balkan states might be put into a United States of Southern Europe and given a republican form of government. Poor Austria would be permitted to choose a real ruler instead of the puppet, and now on the throne, but a few thousand square miles must be cut off of Austrian territory and the people permitted to choose the form of government. In other words, the German people have forfeited their right to have a hand in government of any kind. They have been given a chance, and have made a damnable mess of it.

"BUGGS WALLACE WITH FIGHTING RAINBOW DIVISION.
On Active Service with American Expeditionary Forces, April 10, 1918. Dear Mrs. Wetherington:
Know you will be surprised to get a letter from "Bugs" but that little girl of mine sent me a box of chocolate she purchased from you, believe me it was some good candy. The French chocolate candy isn't near so good as Good Old American Candy. I know you are wondering what the Rainbow Division is doing. We are entertaining the Boche as much as they care to be entertained. I believe I am safe in saying that this division has harvested more "War Crosses" than any other division in the American army. The French, whom we fought with the first time up said they never saw a division of new men fight like old warriors as we did. After we went "over" in the first big raid, capturing two lines of trenches, they were tickled nearly to death, saying, "Americ soldat bon comorades."

I have seen some little bit of France—mostly on hikes, occasionally in a nice little box-car. But I am not permitted to name any of the places I have been. I will say, I have not been to Paris yet. Since going through this hard winter over here, we are getting as fat as pigs. I am getting as large as that bird they call the cow. Give my best regards to my friends. Tell them I will be back when "Billy" Kaiser throws up both hands and says, "Kamarade."

OKLAHOMA WOMAN ADDRESSES FEDERATION

(By the Associated Press)

Hot Springs, Ark., May 7.—Pointing to the vast potential value of man-power now going to waste in the United States through lack of means to utilize idle forces in productive employment and declaring this a timely hour in which "to give the Man in the Shadow in our prisons the proud privilege of contributing to the World's need," Mrs. C. A. Brown of Mangum, Okla., urged delegates to the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to support a bill already introduced in congress which seeks utilization of the labor of federal and other prisoners in the manufacture of government supplies, especially those for war purposes.

Mrs. Brown has advocated many lines of prison reform, having had charge of that work in the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She is a member of the Southern Sociological Congress and Oklahoma representative of the War Board of the National Committee on Prison and Prison Labor.

"Work is the prisoner's right," she said, "a blessing without disguise to those condemned to idleness and solitude. But it should be under conditions which do not debase the state nor degrade the prisoner. If he is now called to labor for his country as a form of war service, the consciousness that he is thus helping his account with society will bring increased self-respect and new courage with which to face the world upon release."

The bill before congress, she said, has the unqualified endorsement of the president of the American Federation of Labor, the secretaries of war, labor and the navy, the Quartermaster General of the Army, a representative of the men in the prisons of the nation, and of President Wilson.

It provides, she explained, for the establishment of factories in the federal penitentiaries at Atlanta, Ga.; McNeil Island, Wash., and the equipment of the army prison and disciplinary barracks for the manufacture of supplies for government use. Surplus output could be put on the open market, she pointed out, since the bill provides prices paid shall be the current prices in that locality for the same commodities and that the hours of labor and the rate of wages shall be those prevailing in the same vicinity, wages being subject to the necessary deduction for the prisoner's maintenance.

The bill also "places the stamp of governmental disapproval upon the vicious system of contract prison labor," she said, by forbidding the purchase of supplies from persons or companies employing convict labor. It would permit the Secretary of war to employ the prisoners of the army in the building of military roads, a work emphasized by the speaker as of great importance.

She quoted the Quartermaster General of the Army as saying: "If the bill is passed the War Department can secure the use of some hundred workshops, under public control, increase the nation's productivity, economize its insufficient labor power, benefit the prisoners, and please the state and local governments."

FAIRY GODMOTHER

By MILDRED WHITE

(Copyright, 1918, by M. White. All Rights Reserved.)

Mollie raised her face from the gayly colored book to look at the child. Eagerly the young-old eyes regarded her. "You may take this home and keep it, dear," said Mollie, "a voyage into the pleasant unrealities will not hurt you. When I was a little girl, I loved the story of the fairy godmother who brings to the poor maiden all that her heart could desire." She smiled at the shabby little figures went joyously down the street.

"It takes so little to make them happy," murmured Mollie. Whimsically her thoughts went back to the fairy godmother. What convenient old creatures they were, happening along at the opportune moment, returning some passing kindness by changing a hut into a castle, or bringing a fairy prince to claim his own. In real life all was so different. Here she was, after years of faithful attendance upon Aunt Drusilla, left alone in the small cottage, it being her own only upon condition that she remain as tenant.

"Oh! for a fairy godmother," sighed Mollie to the yellow cat, then she went to open the door. A bent old figure stood knocking, and Mollie smiled at her own fanciful thought as the wrinkled face peered into her own.

"Does Miss Drusilla Westworth live here?" quavered a sweet old voice.

"No," Mollie answered hesitatingly. In quick comprehension the woman nodded.

"Gone, I suppose," she said, "like all the rest."

"Yes," murmured Mollie. "She was a friend of mine years ago," the woman explained; "we went to school together."

"Won't you come in?" urged the girl. The visitor sighed as she set before the sitting room fire. "It has been a tiresome journey," she said; "I ought not to have come alone. But—they were all so against my coming. Who are you, my dear?" she asked abruptly, and Mollie told her.

"Well, if you are Drusilla's niece," the soft voice went on, "you must have heard of Martha Mantion?"

"I heard," Mollie said, "that she went away long years ago, to be married."

The old lady laughed softly. "And now," she said, "she wants to come back." Again the keen eyes searched the girl's face. "I think I will tell you about it."

"My son has to go to war. He's my baby, if he is thirty years old—and it's very hard. Tom thought that I would be comfortable during his absence at my married son's home, but—"

At least, I could not fit in, in a bedroom where the steam heat does not work. And it's lonely spending evenings with your thoughts, while all the others are at dances or theaters, so I told them I was going back to my home town to stay with an old friend; and the only friend I could think of was Drusilla."

The girl arose briskly. "Well, take off your cloak," she said, "and give your bag to me. Perhaps you will stay, say, for a week with Drusilla's niece. I am lonely, too, and if we find we like each other—"

"Oh!" cried the visitor relievedly; "may I really stay for awhile, could you bear with an old body like me? You could call up my son in the city and find out all about me, dearie—"

Impulsively Mollie bent and clasped the trembling hands. "Why," she laughed, "I don't need to find out the first thing about you; you're going to be my fairy godmother!"

It was pleasant coming in of an evening to find the lamp burning and the silvery head bent busily over Mollie's own sewing. Or to sing at the piano to a joyously appreciative listener. Pleasant, too, for the young and old faces to smile at each other across the white-spread table.

"Why, this is home at last," breathed the girl.

"This is my home," said the older woman.

"And you will stay?" begged Mollie, when the first week was up.

The answer was interrupted by a summons to the front door. Past Mollie, into the parlor strode a man's soldier-clad figure.

"Mother!" burst out the man; "whatever did you mean by running away? John wired to camp, and I had leave of absence to come back. Why, mother?"

"Dearie," she entreated, "don't make me go to John's home again; here I am loved and wanted."

"I want her very much," agreed Mollie. And so, miraculously, during the soldier's two days of absence, Mollie had two guests.

"We had to dismiss our city servants and close up our big place," the man told her; "too much of a care for mother."

Mollie stared. "You must come and stay with us some time—after the war is over," he went on. "You don't know what a load you have lifted from my heart. Leaving her happy makes it so much easier, and—" steadily his eyes looked into her, "I want you to write to me often, will you? That will help, too—the thought of coming back—to you both."

With her arm about the little old mother, the girl watched him go striding down the road. "It is cold, dear," said Mollie; "you had better go inside."

And as the man turned for one last long look, Mollie waved.

"Oh, fairy godmother," she whispered, "you have brought to me my prince."

O. K. CEMENT OFFICES MOVING TO NEW QUARTERS AT PLANT

The offices of the Oklahoma Portland Cement Co., which have been over the Farmers' State bank for the past eight or nine years, are being moved to the new office building recently erected at the plant. The new quarters were built expressly for this purpose and arranged with every convenience for the office force.

For the convenience of the public the News is carrying on sale a supply of Thrift Stamps and War Savings Certificates.

By the plan of Minister of the Treasury Nitti, so far as concerns the Americans here who decide to send money home for any reason, or to any foreign country, they must fill out in duplicate a blank form provided by the bank selling them drafts and on this blank they must give the name of the person to whom money is sent, with the exact reason. Persons traveling may buy the money of the country to which they are destined on presentation of passports or other papers.

LESS THAN HALF ADA VOTERS REGISTERED

Voters in Ada have been very slow about registering this week. This morning only 434 out of more than 1,000 had applied for their certificates. Of these 141 were in first ward, 150 in second, 69 in third and 74 in fourth.

The books will close Friday and those who have not registered may find themselves deprived of their privilege of voting. As explained before, all who have changed their voting residence, changed politics, have become voters since last registration or lost their registration certificates, must register, and it is advisable that all voters register again, since the records were lost in the court house fire.

J. W. Beard, registrar for first ward, can be found at the fire station; T. O. Cullins, second ward, at Hope-Cann drug store; George Young third ward, at Coffman, Bobbitt, Sparks Co.'s hardware store; L. C. Lindsey, fourth ward, at county treasurer's office.

Barbed wire cuts, ragged wounds, collar and harness galls heal up quickly when BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT is applied. It is both healing and antiseptic. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Bart Smith.

STEEDMAN.

Plenty of rain these days; all gardens look fine where the women have worked them out.

Quite a few went to Ada last Wednesday to hear the trial of Tom Finley for killing Bud Shahan and shooting Homer Pannell on April 29.

Crops are now looking better. The late frost stopped the corn from growing for some time and lots of the early potatoes have not come out yet.

The people of Steedman were disappointed Saturday night as the Allen folks had sent out circulars that they would put on a show at the school house for the benefit of the Red Cross. The stage was put up Friday evening and the town was full of people for the show, but instead of coming to Steedman they went to the Panther school house southeast of Allen so we all missed the show.

Dr. Standridge was reported to have smallpox but it turned out to be measles, so says Dr. Bullock of Allen who called on him, so school is going on as ever.

John Case and family were callers at Prof. Billingsley's Sunday. Miss Mattie Miller, the Black Rock teacher was the guest of Miss Lula McKinney Saturday night at Mrs. Annie Hughes'.

Work of cleaning the burnt debris from the gin yard is going on and we think that a new gin will be up in the next 90 days.

Quite a lot of measles around. Several new cases reported last day or so.

Mr. Hughes, the ex-postmaster and the worst telephone operator on this side, has a very bad cold, but is going to try working on the new gin.

PIONEER.

Paulo Gruppe.

The High School presents to the music loving people of Ada another musical treat in the person of Paulo Gruppe, the foremost cellist of this country and one of the leading artists of the world in this particular musical line.

Mr. Gruppe ranks easily in his line with Mr. Middleton. He enjoys the distinction of having been soloist in the New York Symphony Orchestra, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in this country, the London and Munich Symphony Orchestras in Europe, and the Quebec Symphony Orchestra in Canada. This is enough to rate him as an artist of the first magnitude and Adai's fortunate in having this opportunity.

He will appear at the Normal auditorium on Thursday evening, May 16th.

FAMOUS ITALIAN 99 YEARS OLD.

(By the Associated Press)
Rome, May 7.—Italy's most famous old man, Giuseppe Greppi, count and senator, has just celebrated his ninety-ninth year. "Eat well and you will live well and long—that is my secret," he said. In his younger days Count Greppi was a cavalry officer and later entered the diplomatic service traveling in European and Oriental countries. He lived for many years in Russia, where he was Italian ambassador.

Brents Cleaning Up Duncan.

Special Officer T. E. Brents and Deputies Sellers, Skaggs, Bivens, Champman, Collier raided the garage of A. C. Fowlers at Duncan a few days ago and found 500 quarts of booze which they smashed on the front lawn. The Walters Democrat says the owner objected to the lawn party as his wife's pastor passed that way in going to town and he did not care to have him see the result of the raid.

The Democrat says Duncan is due for a general cleaning and that Brents and his deputies are giving it all that is coming to it.

WAS ALMOST IN DESPAIR, SHE SAYS

In Miserable Health for Four Years and in Bed Most of Time.

"I was almost in despair and did not know which way to turn for relief when some friends told me about Tanlac and I honestly believe the medicine has saved my life," said Mrs. Blanche S. Dabney, who resides at 2901 Bookhout street, Dallas, Texas, recently.

"About four years ago," continued Mrs. Dabney, "I had an attack of ptomaine poisoning after eating ice cream, and this seemed to be the beginning of serious trouble for me. I soon got so I couldn't eat without suffering severe pain in the pit of my stomach. Gas would form causing intense pain around my heart, smothering spells and awful headaches. I kept getting worse until everything disagreed with me and then rheumatism set in and I simply suffered agony. At times I could do none of my housework at all. In fact, I was confined to my bed three and four days at a time. I tried everything, including mineral baths, but kept going down until I hardly had any hope left. I was so nervous and restless I could scarcely sleep at all. I would lay awake half the night and get up in the mornings feeling half dead.

"A number of my friends advised me to try Tanlac and, oh, I'm so glad now I did, for as I said, I believe it has saved my life. I began to feel better with my first dose, it seemed to soothe and strengthen my stomach and my appetite has improved until now I can eat just anything other people can. My suffering is all gone and my flesh and muscles have grown firmer. My sleep is sound and restful and I wake up in the mornings feeling fine and full of vigor. I can do my housework now and I can't say too much in praise of Tanlac for its wonderful work in my case."

Tanlac is sold in Ada by Gwin & Mays Drug Company, and by leading druggists and dealers everywhere.

FLEET ON WHEELS WILL CRUISE COUNTRY

(By the Associated Press)

Great Lakes, May 7.—A fleet on wheels will cruise the Middle West, recruiting men and sending them direct to the Great Lakes for training. Lieutenant John Roman, ordnance officer, is preparing the fleet for action. It is expected the vessels will be placed in commission within the next two weeks.

The fleet will be composed of three vessels, mounted on as many flat cars. There will be a torpedo boat destroyer, a submarine and a submarine chaser of the Eagle type.

All the vessels will mount guns. The submarine will carry torpedoes also.

Crews for the ships will be picked from Great Lakes bluejackets and a detachment of the Great Lakes bank will accompany the fleet.

Painted canvas will be stretched along the sides of the bottoms of the vessels to give the expedition of a sea-going effect. When the fleet is in motion it will have the appearance of bounding over the billow deep.

Two standard coaches, one to be used by the examining physicians and the other for mess purposes, will be carried with the fleet. Recruits immediately upon application will be given their physical examination.

As the fleet moves into a port the cannon will roar and the band play. Then the active work of recruiting will be begun.

Plans for the movements of the fleet include a cruise over every traction line and railroad in the Middle West.

NOT ALL BRUTALIZED BY WAR

English "Tommy" at the Front Are Said to Be Remarkable for Their Kindliness.

You wouldn't think that men would go to war to learn how to be kind, but they do. There's no kinder creature in the whole wide world than the average Tommy. He makes a friend of any stray animal he can find. He shares his last franc with a chap who isn't his pal. He risks his life quite inconsequently to rescue anyone who's wounded. When he's gone over the top with bomb and bayonet for the express purpose of "doing in" the Hun, he makes a comrade of the Fritz he captures. You'll see him coming down the battered trenches with some scared lad of a German at his side. He's gabbling away making throat noises and signs, smiling and doing his inarticulate best to be intelligible. He pets the Hun on the back, hands him chocolate and cigarettes, exchanges souvenirs and shares with him his last luxury. If anyone interferes with his Fritz he's willing to fight. When they come to the cage where the prisoner has to be handed over, the farewells of these companions whose acquaintance has been made at the bayonet point are often as absurd as they are affecting. I suppose one only learns the value of kindness when he feels the need of it himself. The men out there have said "good-by" to everything they loved, but they've got to love someone—so they give their affections to captured Fritzes, stray dogs, fellows who've collected a piece of a shell—in fact, to anyone who's a little worse off than themselves.—Coningsby, Lieutenant Canadian Field Artillery, in Good Housekeeping.

'T WAS AN INK WELL

Papa Bug—Don't you dare drink any of the dirty black water in that well, Tommy Bug.

WHY SHE WAS ANGRY.

The other night the Germans bombed a certain town in which there is a flourishing American canteen. The town is often bombed, and wherever that is the case the populace works up a very lively fear of the death from the sky. One never becomes accustomed to this sort of an attack.

"It was outrageous," said a pretty American canteen worker. She really is pretty and not merely pretty by journalistic brevet. She is in her early twenties, and lived a most sheltered and cultured life, until she came here to keep American soldiers from getting into gastronomic difficulties.

"It certainly was," agreed the man, thinking of the bombing. "It is a cruel thing to bomb an undefended town."

"Rats!" said the canteen worker, viciously. "I'm not thinking of the Boche. I'm talking of our cook. She had to go and faint right in the middle of the bombardment—and it was the busiest night we ever had."

WAR SCRAP BOOKS.

New York women are making scrap books, not only for the purpose of amusing the boys over in France, but to preserve for posterity reliable accounts of what is taking place today. These books contain not only stories but cartoons, the most wonderful that any age ever produced, being printed during these years of the war. Pictures and illustrations of all kinds will be valuable in these scrap books, but much of the printed matter will have to be eliminated if the war is to continue much longer, unless one is very careful in selection.

"Over the Top"

By An American Soldier
Who Went

ARTHUR GUY ENPEY
Machine Gunner Serving in France

(Copyright, 1918, by Arthur Guy Enpey)

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Fired by the news of the sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine, Arthur Guy Enpey, an American, leaves his office in Jersey City and goes to England where he enlists in the British army.

CHAPTER II—After a period of training, Enpey volunteers for immediate service and soon finds himself in rest billets "somewhere in France," where he first makes the acquaintance of the ever-present "coolies."

CHAPTER III—Enpey attends his first church service at the front, while a German Fokker circles over the congregation.

CHAPTER IV—Enpey's command goes into the front-line trenches and is under fire for the first time.

CHAPTER V—Enpey learns to adopt the motto of the British Tommy, "If you are going to get it, you'll get it, so never worry."

CHAPTER VI—Back in rest billets, Enpey gets his first experience as a mess orderly.

CHAPTER VII—Enpey learns how the British soldiers are fed.

CHAPTER VIII—Back in the front-line trench, Enpey sees his first friend of the trenches "go West."

CHAPTER IX—Enpey makes his first visit to a "dugout" in the "Suicide Ditch."

CHAPTER X—Enpey learns what constitutes a "day's work" in the front-line trench.

CHAPTER XI—Enpey goes "over the top" for the first time in a charge on the German trenches and is wounded by a bayonet thrust.

CHAPTER XII—Enpey joins the "suicide club" as the bombing squad is called.

CHAPTER XIII—Each Tommy gets an official bath.

CHAPTER XIV—Enpey helps dig an advanced trench under German fire.

CHAPTER XV—On "listening post" in No Man's Land.

CHAPTER XVI—Two artillerymen "put one over" on Old Pepper, their regimental commander.

CHAPTER XVII—Enpey has narrow escape while on patrol duty in No Man's Land.

CHAPTER XVIII—Back in rest billets Enpey writes and stages a farce comedy.

CHAPTER XIX—Soldiers have many ways to amuse themselves while "on their own."

CHAPTER XX—Enpey volunteers for machine gun service and goes back into the front-line trenches.

CHAPTER XXI—Enpey again goes "over the top" in a charge which cost his company 17 killed and 31 wounded.

CHAPTER XXII—Fritz with a machine gun silences one of Enpey's Fritz.

CHAPTER XXIII—German attack, preceded by gas wave, is repulsed.

CHAPTER XXIV—Enpey is forced to take part in an execution as a member of the firing squad.

CHAPTER XXV.

Preparing for the Big Push. Rejoining Atwell after the execution I had a hard time trying to keep my secret from him. I think I must have lost at least ten pounds worrying over the affair.

Beginning at seven in the evening it was our duty to patrol all communication and front-line trenches, making note of unusual occurrences, and arresting anyone who should, to us, appear to be acting in a suspicious manner. We slept during the day.

Behind the lines there was great activity, supplies and ammunition pouring in, and long columns of troops constantly passing. We were preparing for the big offensive, the forerunner of the battle of the Somme or "Big Push."

The never-ending stream of men, supplies, ammunition and guns pouring into the front lines made a mighty spectacle, one that cannot be described. It has to be witnessed with your own eyes to appreciate its vastness.

At our part of the line the influx of supplies never ended. It looked like a huge snake slowly crawling forward, never a hitch or break, a wonderful tribute to the system and efficiency of Great Britain's "contemptible little army" of five millions of men.

Huge fifteen-inch guns snaked along, foot by foot, by powerful steam tractors. Then a long line of "four point five" batteries, each gun drawn by six horses, then a couple of "nine point two" howitzers pulled by immense caterpillar engines.

When one of these caterpillars would pass me with its mighty monster in tow, a flush of pride would mount to my face, because I could plainly read on the name plate, "Made in U. S. A." and I would remember that if I were a name plate it would also read, "From the U. S. A." Then I would stop to think how thin and straggly that mighty stream would be if all the "Made in U. S. A." parts of it were withdrawn.

Then would come hundreds of limbers and "G. S." wagons drawn by sleek, well-fed mules, ridden by sleek, well-fed men, ever smiling, although grimy with sweat and covered with the fine, white dust of the marvelously well-made French roads.

What a discouraging report the German airmen must have taken back to their division commanders, and this stream is slowly but surely getting bigger and bigger every day, and the pace is always the same. No slower, no faster, but ever onward, ever forward.

location of the parts his battalion was to attack.

In the American army noncommissioned officers are put through a course of map making or road sketching, and during my six years' service in the United States cavalry I had plenty of practice in this work, therefore mapping these trenches was a comparatively easy task for me. Each man had to submit his map to the company commander to be passed upon, and I was lucky enough to have mine selected as being sufficiently authentic to use in the attack.

No photographs or maps are allowed to leave France, but in this case it appeared to me as a valuable souvenir of the great war and I managed to smuggle it through. At this time it carries no military importance as the British lines, I am happy to say, have since been advanced beyond this point, so in having it in my possession I am not breaking any regulation or cautions of the British army.

The whole attack was rehearsed and rehearsed until we heartily cursed the one who had conceived the idea.

The trenches were named according to a system which made it very simple for Tommy to find, even in the dark, any point in the German lines.

These imitation trenches, or trench models, were well guarded from observation by numerous allied planes which constantly circled above them.

No German airplane could approach within observation distance. A restricted area was maintained and no civilian was allowed within three miles, so we felt sure that we had a great surprise in store for Fritz.

When we took over the front line we received an awful shock. The Germans displayed signboards over the top of their trench showing the names that we had called their trenches. The signs read "Fair," "Fate," "Fate," and "Fancy," and so on, according to the code names on our map. Then to rub it in, they hoisted some more signs which read, "Come on, we are ready, stupid English."

It is still a mystery to me how they obtained this knowledge. There had been no raids or prisoners taken, so it must have been the work of spies in our own lines.

Three or four days before the big push we tried to shatter Fritz's nerves by faint attacks, and partially succeeded as the official reports of July 1 show.

Although we were constantly bombarding their lines day and night, still we fooled the Germans several times. This was accomplished by throwing an intense barrage into his lines—then using smoke shells we would put a curtain of white smoke across No Man's Land, completely obstructing his view of our trenches, and would raise our curtain of fire as if in an actual attack. All down our trenches the men would shout and cheer, and Fritz would turn loose with machine-gun, rifle, and shrapnel fire, thinking we were coming over.

After three or four of these dummy attacks his nerves must have been near the breaking point.

On June 24, 1918, at 9:40 in the morning our guns opened up, and hell was let loose. The din was terrific, a constant boom-boom-boom in your ear.

At night the sky was a red glare. Our bombardment had lasted about two hours when Fritz started replying. Although we were sending over ten shells to his one, our casualties were heavy. There was a constant stream of stretchers coming out of the communication trenches and burial parties were a common sight.

In the dugouts the noise of the guns almost hurt. You had the same sensation as when riding on the subway you enter the tube under the river going to Brooklyn—a sort of pressure on the ear drums, and the ground constantly trembling.

The roads behind the trenches were very dangerous because Boche shrapnel was constantly bursting over them. We avoided these dangerous spots by crossing through open fields.

The destruction in the German lines was awful and I really felt sorry for them because I realized how they must be clicking it.

From our front-line trench, every now and again, we could hear sharp whistle blasts in the German trenches. These blasts were the signals for stretcher bearers, and meant the wounding or killing of some German in the service of his fatherland.

Atwell and I had a tough time of it, patrolling the different trenches at night, but after awhile got used to it.

My old outfit, the machine gun company, was stationed in huge elephant dugouts about four hundred yards behind the front-line trench—they were in reserve. Occasionally I would stop in their dugout and have a confab with my former mates. Although we tried to be jolly, still, there was a lurking feeling of impending disaster. Each man was wondering, if, after the slogan, "Over the top with the best of luck," had been sounded, would he still be alive or would he be lying "somewhere in France." In an old dilapidated house, the walls of which were scarred with machine-gun bullets, No. 3 section of the machine gun company had its quarters. The company's cooks prepared the meals in this billet. On the 25th evening of the bombardment a German eight-inch shell registered a direct hit on the billet and wiped out ten men who were asleep in the supposedly bomb-proof cellar. They were buried the next day and I attended the funeral.

160 MEN CALLED FROM PONTOTOC

LIST WILL INCLUDE THOSE HERETOFORE EXCUSED ON OCCUPATIONAL GROUNDS.

The board of Pontotoc county has received orders to have 160 men, 147 whites and 13 negroes, ready to leave for training camps the latter part of the month. The exact date has not been designated, but it is supposed that it will be about the 25th. The whites will be sent to Camp Bowie, Fort Worth, Texas, and the colored ones to Ft. Riley.

The orders received by the county board are that those who were to have been called sooner, but whose induction into service was postponed because of their farming activities, must be taken at this time, regardless of their occupation. Secretary Riley says that the men will be taken from order numbers from 341 to 1,835 and that men affected by this order should at once begin arranging their affairs to leave when the order comes to move.

At this time 5,933 will be sent from Oklahoma. At present there are 23,633 men of Class 1 in Oklahoma already qualified and this call will get about one-fourth of this number.

AVIATORS AT TEXAS CAMPS MAKE RECORDS

(By the Associated Press)

Dallas, Tex., May 7.—New achievements in endurance and altitude tests at the Texas aviation camps have been recorded frequently this spring. Some of the latest are reported from Ellington field at Houston, where on a single day new camp records for both height and endurance were set.

An army flier whose name is withheld by order of the executive authorities at the post, climbed to 20,800 feet, only a little less than four miles in the air. On the same day, a civilian demonstrator for an eastern motor company remained in the air, with a passenger for nine hours and 53 minutes and descended only when his last drop of gasoline had been consumed.

The test for altitude, was withheld by the Ellington field authorities. The result, they said was gratifying and of great value in demonstrating the utility of certain innovations and improvements that have been under consideration for some time. The climbing quality and power and speed developed exceeded expectations.

In the endurance trial some of the officers had been of the opinion that the motor to be tested would stall before the gasoline in the tank was completely exhausted, while the manufacturer's demonstrator contended, of course, that the motor would consume every drop of available fuel.

With a passenger he arose at 8:25 a. m. and stayed aloft until he volunteered a landing at 6:18 p. m. The engine continued running without the slightest indication of stalling until the last drop of fuel in the tank was drained into the cylinders.

How to Apply Gum. By means of a printed notice attached to each bottle of gum, H. M. stationery office thus instructs the government officials in the use of that substance:

"In ordinary use, the best and most nearly immediate result is obtained by using only such an amount of gum as will just uniformly moisten the surface without leaving any obvious excess to delay drying, the condition to be aimed at being that of a gummed postage stamp just moistened as ordinarily applied to a letter." Which is just another way of saying, "Apply lightly."—London Tit-Bits.

Acids Endanger Ships. Shipmasters dislike carrying drums of acid where they cannot be reached readily. A Chilean ship, the Japan Advertiser says, recently put in at the Falkland islands leaking badly. Her cargo was made up of drums of acid and chalk. The acid had leaked from the drums and mixed with the chalk, forming carbonic acid gas in the hold. This gas is deadly and the crew could not make repairs. Meantime the acid had gathered at the bottom of the hold and eaten away the iron frames of the ship.

To Mend Marble Ornaments. To mend marble ornaments, plaster of Paris, finely powdered, is soaked in as much saturated solution of alum as it will absorb. The mixture is baked in a slow oven, and when hard it is ground to a powder. This powder, mixed in water and applied like plaster, sets very hard, will take a very good polish, and, if properly colored, makes a capital imitation of any kind of marble.

My Boy. "Don't send a boy where a girl can't go," said a mother. "There's no danger for boys, you know, because they all have their wild oats to sow." There is no more excuse for a boy to be low than a girl. Then please don't tell him so. Don't send a boy where a girl can't go. For a boy or girl, sin is sin, you know. And a good boy's hands are as clean and white. And his heart as pure as a girl's tonight.

SUNSHINE. The farmers are smiling over the much needed rain that came Sunday. Mrs. Sarah Blake who has been visiting at Muskogee, Okla., returned home Tuesday.

Mr. George Pitt and sister Mrs. H. E. Tinsley, made a flying trip to West Texas in Mr. Pitt's Ford, returning home the last of the week accompanied by their sister Mrs. Charles Kenner and children.

M. Connor took a load of hogs to Roff Saturday.

G. E. Davis, wife and children and Mrs. E. D. Littlefield and children, spent the last of the week at Stone-wall, Okla., visiting the mother and sisters of Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Littlefield. Mrs. Eva Bandy and daughters, Misses Loula and Edna Bandy, Ed Littlefield went to Roff Saturday.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN HOLLAND AND GERMANY EXPLAINED. The Hague, Sunday, March 5.—In announcing to the Dutch Chamber today that Holland and Germany had reached an agreement, Foreign Minister Louzon explained the settlement of the German demand for transport over the Dutch Railway by way of Roermond, Germany, he said, had agreed to exclude from transport airplanes, arms and munitions, while there never had been any question of the transport of troops.

The Foreign Minister said Germany had undertaken to limit sand and gravel sent through Dutch waterways to a maximum of 1,600,000 tons and had promised not to use the material for military purposes.
